the birds that live around us?

Two Sessions, Choose

Sunday August 30th, 2015

or

Sunday September 13th, 2015

1pm to 4 pm

A classroom session will introduce the concept of bird watching as a hobby including equipment required, reference guides and key points for identification. Class will be followed by a 90 minute walk through all three of the ecosystems at Armand Bayou Nature Center will follow to see how many birds we can spot and identify. Field guides and binoculars will be available for the use of the group. Remember we are a nature center so please wear sturdy shoes and bring sunscreen, water, a hat and bug spray.

$15 for adults 13 to 59, $10 for seniors and children 10 -12, minimum age is 10, includes daily admission

Reservation is required, call 281-474-2551 x 10 to save your place.

Gaye Batiz has been an active volunteer at Armand Bayou Nature Center since Nov 2005. She has been interested in birds for over 40 years and, since retiring, has become an avid birdwatcher. Although not an expert birder, Gaye can provide key information on how to become better at identifying birds and methods of recording spots for personal pleasure.
